

CONTENTS

Foreword by Dan Poynter
Foreword by Ronald Pynn
Foreword by John Vivian
Author's Preface
About the Author

Chapter 1 Self-Publishing is Academically Respectable

Are Good Books Self-Published?
Self-Publishing Versus Vanity Publishing
Acquisitions, the Bottom Line, and Book Publishing
Self-Publishing: Process Versus Product

Chapter 2 Self-Publishing Has Potential Benefits and Risks

Potential Benefits of Self-Publishing
 Providing Information Not Otherwise Available
 Controlling Price, Form, Length, and Content
 Avoiding the “Satisfactory Manuscript” Clause
 Controlling How Long the Work Is In Print
 Authorizing Revisions
 Retaining Copyright
 Controlling Subsidiary Rights
 Getting into Print Quickly
 Making More Money
 Directing Marketing and Promotion
 Inviting Family Participation
 Having Pleasure!
Potential Risks of Self-Publishing
 Having to Set Up A Company
 Having to Pay Costs Up Front
 Having to Spend Time on Publishing Tasks
 Having to Acquire New Knowledge and Skills
 Engaging in Activities You May Not Enjoy
 Risking Rejection
Weighing Potential Benefits and Risks

Chapter 3 An Overview of the Self-Publishing Process

Assessing the Potential of a Project for Self-Publishing
Setting Up a Publishing Company
Authoring the Book or Material
Deciding on the Mode of Publication
Preparing Camera-Ready and Disk Copy
Indexing and Preparing the Front Matter and Cover
Copyrighting and Registering the Work
Printing, Binding, and Warehousing
Marketing
Filling Orders and Maintaining Financial Records
Selling Subsidiary and Reprint Rights
It Is Normal to Feel Overwhelmed!

Chapter 4 Assessing the Practicality of a Project for Self-Publishing

Your Attitude Toward Self-Publishing

Is It Really Academically Respectable?

Will Your Peers Value a Self-Published Work?

Wouldn't a Publisher Publish It If It Were Worth Publishing?

Your Attitude Toward Operating a Small Business

Your Ability to Make the Necessary Financial Investment

Book Length and Illustrations

Size of First Printing and Trim Size

Use of a Second Color or Four-Color Printing

Cover(s) and Binding(s) Used

Production Tasks That Are Subcontracted

Finding Competent Freelance Production Help

Warehousing and Order Fulfillment Expenses

Marketing Expenses

Your Ability to Make the Necessary Time Investment

Ease of Marketing and Availability of Publishing Alternatives

Chapter 5 Setting Up Your Publishing Company

Select a Business Structure

Obtain Business Licenses and Permits

Name Your Company and Register It

Rent a Post Office Box

Generate Working Capital

Your Financial Resources

A Personal or Business Loan

A Grant

A Pre-Publication Special Offer

Royalty Financing

Open a Business Checking Account and Arrange Card Service

Set Up a Bookkeeping System

Set Up a Web Site

Secure Toll-Free Numbers for Ordering

Have Business Stationery Printed

Purchase Equipment and Supplies

Obtain ISBNs

Obtain Copyright Forms

Apply for a PCN and CIP Data

Arrange for Copyediting

Arrange for Printing and Binding

Online Resources for Setting Up Your Publishing Company

Chapter 6 Authoring Your Textbook or Instructional Material

Establishing a Daily Schedule

Deciding How and Where to Write

Choosing Computer Hardware and Software

Drafting and Editing Text

Securing Illustrations

Drawings

Photographs

Authoring References and Online Resources

Chapter 7 Print and Electronic Self-Publishing

- Photo-Offset Printing
 - Page Size
 - Number of Pages
 - Paper and Ink
 - Illustrations Provided
 - Kind of Binding
 - Cover Paper and Printing
 - Copy Provided
 - Number of Copies
- Photocopies and Printouts
- Short Runs, Long Runs, and Print On Demand
- Which Print Process Should You Use?
- Electronic Options
 - Digital Books
 - Online Ebooks
- Audiobooks
- Videotape and Digitized Video
- Online Resources for Print and Electronic Publishing

Chapter 8 Preparing Pages for Print and Electronic Publication

- Choice of Fonts
- Keyboarding for Typesetting
- Page Design
 - Margins
 - Flush Left versus Justified Text
 - Fonts Used
 - Type Sizes and Leading
 - Design Principles to Apply
 - Laying Out Text on Pages
- Preparing Illustrations
 - Creating Your Illustrations
 - Commissioning Your Illustrations
 - Using Existing Drawings and Photographs
 - Digitizing and Modifying Illustrations
 - Preparing Halftones for Illustrations
 - Preparing Captions
- Printing Your Master
- Online Resources for Preparing Pages

Chapter 9 Preparing Indexes and Front Matter

- Preparing Front Matter
 - Printed Endpapers
 - Half-Title Page and Frontispiece
 - Title Page and Copyright Page
 - Dedication Page and Epigraph Page
 - Table of Contents and List of Illustrations
 - Foreword and Preface
 - Acknowledgments and Disclaimer
- Indexing
 - Indexing Software
 - Indexing Help
- Preparing Other Back Matter

Online Resources for Preparing Front Matter and Back Matter

Chapter 10 Copyrighting and Registering a Self-Published Work

Copyrighting Books and Materials

Provisions of Copyright Law

Duration of Copyright Protection

Material That Can Be Copyrighted

Ownership and Transfer of Rights

Reproduction and Fair Use

Notice of Copyright

Depositing

Copyright Infringement and Remedies

Other Registrations

Granting Permission to Use Your Work

Online Resources for Copyrighting and Registering a Work

Chapter 11 Practical Marketing Approaches for Academic Self-Publishers

Your First Steps

A Foreword

Endorsements

Press Releases

Announcements

Reviews

Directory Listings

Developing Your Marketing Campaign

Articles and Interviews

Presenting and Exhibiting

Sending Examination Copies

Direct Mail Marketing

Telemarketing

Marketing on Your Web Site

Working with Wholesalers and Distributors

Understanding the Difference

Your Publicity Kit

Marketing to Academic Libraries

Marketing to Bookstores

Using Online Bookstores

Developing Special Promotions

E-Mail Promotions

Radio and Television Promotions

Book Signings

Workshops

Advertising

Marketing Resources for Academic Self-Publishers

Chapter 12 Financial Considerations for Self-Publishers

Figuring Your Expenses

Figuring Your Price

Setting Your Terms and Conditions

Maintaining Financial Records

Example of a Discount Schedule and Terms

Chapter 13 Selling Subsidiary Rights for Textbooks and Materials

- Reprint Rights
- Foreign and Translation Rights
- Book Club Rights
- Media and Electronic Rights
- Licensing
- Serial Rights

Chapter 14 Selling Your Self-Published Textbook to a Publisher

- Identifying Possible Publishers
- Writing Query Letters
- Preparing a Proposal
- Proposal Submission Strategies
- Negotiating a Publishing Contract

Chapter 15 Self-Publishing Trade Books for the General Public

- Size and Cover Design
- Print Runs and Pricing
- Publicity
- Direct Sales and Sales to Retailers
- Selling to Public Libraries
- Selling Reprint Rights

References and Bibliography

Index

LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS AND TABLES

Some Benefits and Risks of Self-Publishing
Organization of This Book in Terms of Self-Publishing Tasks
Self-Publishing Process At-A-Glance
Potentially Self-Published Instructional Materials
Organization of This Book in Terms of Production Tasks
Online Resources for Getting Production Help
Four Key Factors in Deciding to Self-Publish
Becoming a Self-Publisher: A Checklist
Online Resources for Setting Up Your Publishing Company
Authoring Tasks
Authoring References and Online Resources
Publishing Options
Online Resources for Print and Electronic Publishing
Online Resources for Preparing Pages
Online Resources for Preparing Front Matter and Back Matter
Online Resources for Copyrighting and Registering a Work
Wholesalers versus Distributors: A Comparison
Amazon.com's Merchant Programs
Marketing Resources for Academic Self-Publishers
Figuring Costs: A Typical Ratio
Some Resources for Financial Management
Online Resources for Selling Subsidiary Rights
Selling Your Book
Online Resources for Negotiating Book Contracts